Design Philosophy-

I believe it is human nature to want to change the world, to leave your mark. An interior designer has many options to do this through codes, sustainability, and collectively changing the way humans interact in a space. While the aesthetics and functionality of a space are the main goals of a design there are many opportunities to improve on a way of life and this is what I find most important.

About me-

I like to travel and reading. I love upcycling and “green” design. I want to eventually design a self-sustainable building or home.
